

Message from Tournament Director

Greetings from Wismilak International Bali! It is an honour to start off this exciting new year of 2005 with the launch of our monthly e-newsletter to update you on what's happening, stories of players, rankings and wins as well as off-court events to look out for at the 2005 tournament which is set for 11th till 18th of September. Within this e-newsletter we will also inform you on the list of players confirmed participating at Wismilak International Bali as and when they come in. As South East Asia's biggest tennis tournament, Wismilak International Bali offers a prize money of US$ 225 000 and it is characteristically scheduled immediately after the US Open to allow a semi down time for players yet still keeping up the competitive tempo of plays and practices. We look forward to bringing to Bali another fantastic tournament this year!

Best regards,
Kevin Livesey

Get in touch with your feminine side

What's Bali without the herbs, fragrant oils and spices, coupled with skilled hands to ease away a tense body in an age-old ritual of a massage. The soothing of the senses, the pampering of the soul, this is exactly what top women tennis players of the world experience when they participate in Wismilak International Bali. Courtesy of Mandara Spa, the Spa treatments during this Bali visit allow these women to get in touch with their feminine side, with treatment schedule designed to be taken at their own individual time thus adjusting to the body clock of each player.

Serving an Ace

After a lengthy break due to a knee injury, Indonesia's Angelique Wijaya is now back onto the courts with a spirited determination to catch up loss grounds. Angie, a nick name she is more well-known for, says that she looks forward to the participation of International players at the upcoming Wismilak International Bali this September. "I hope more and more International players are able to share the experience offered by the annual Wismilak International Bali, where we do not only have fun on court but off court as well," says Angie, who rose to fame as the winner of 2001 Wismilak International Bali.

Did you know

Wismilak International Bali is organising a monument design competition, open to public, put together under the supervision of Bali Tourism Development Corporation (BTDC) the managing body of the tourist area of Nusa Dua enclave. A committee has been appointed, led by Ir. I Nyoman Gelebet, MSi. and a Guideline and Zoning paper has been published to ensure architects wishing to participate in the competition understand the technicalities and competition requirements.

E-Quiz February

Name the Indonesian player who won the 2001 Wismilak International Bali tournament. Send your answer to [info@wismilakinternational.com]. Please remember to include your full name, your age and your mailing address. Prizes will be sent to the first 50 correct answers.